Doba Drop ShippingDoba is a multi-category drop shipping company focusing on sourcing in demand products. They act as a bulk wholesaler and provide a drop shipping service for their online resellers. Their entire business focuses on helping small scale retail businesses, especially individuals starting their own retail store, build a foundation for their venture by providing them with a very wide range of items they can sell. Some of the products you will find at Doba.com are books, electronics, clothing, entertainment, health products and sports gear. With an impressive catalog of over 2million products, Doba is definitely one of the top companies offering a true retail supply solution based around the drop shipping concept. To say that they have everything is almost an understatement. What sets Doba apart from other suppliers is their full API integration ability allowing online resellers to tap directly into their entire inventory. Another key feature is their easy export of data across multiple platforms for those who wish to sell on eBay, Amazon and other websites apart from their own. They also offer a free trial of their services which can be availed by signing up through their website.
